

Megabus.com Expands Washington, D.C., Service to Montgomery County/Roanoke Area

Express bus service now available for travel to Washington, D.C., and Knoxville, Tenn.

New York, NY – Residents in the Montgomery County area can now travel to Washington, D.C., and Knoxville, Tenn., for as low as one dollar.

Megabus - a city-to-city express bus company - recently named Washington, D.C., as its fifth service hub and will begin daily service to and from 11 cities including Christiansburg, Blacksburg and Roanoke on Dec. 15.

Megabus.com will offer 6 daily departures from its arrival and departure location at Falling Branch Park & Ride Lot, exit 118A on I-81.

Customers are encouraged to book early to secure $1 fares. Fares always start as low as $1 and get higher as the traveling date gets closer.

"The overwhelming popularity of megabus.com and demand for affordable travel inspires us to continue expanding our service reach," said Dale Moser, president of Coach USA/megabus.com. "Megabus.com will now be able to deliver a greater travel value to the residents of the Christiansburg/Blacksburg/Roanoke area and the surrounding cities."

Megabus.com, a subsidiary of Coach USA, launched in April 2006 and has served more than seven million travelers. In addition to low fares, Megabus offers customers environmentally-friendly buses, free Wi-Fi, power outlets and restrooms.

To celebrate this expansion, Megabus is offering 10,000 free seats for travel Dec. 15 through Jan. 15. The free seats will be available on Megabus departures to and from the 11 Washington expansion cities. Customers will need to use the promo code ILUVDC when booking their tickets via www.megabus.com (subject to availability on select dates, routes).
